

Congo Unprepared for Self-Rule, Says Book

Democracy is a way of life only when coupled with education, self-discipline, and the resolve of a people to put good government ahead of their personal interest.

Our subject is the blood-spattered Congo — but the words are for some impetuous white lands as well, even our own United States.

We have grown used to thinking of the U. S. A. as a model government and its particular brand of democracy as a push-button device that automatically guarantees freedom and law and order everywhere in the world.

But someone hit the push-button in the Belgian Congo nearly a year ago — and terror and bloodshed and chaos have followed all the days since.

Last month your writer had just finished reading a book report on Africa by a world-famous journalist, when Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, came through Hope and stopped for an informal coffee meeting with some friends, including your editor. It gave us a chance to compare the findings of the journalist with the information in the hands of Senator Fulbright — and the senator's replies tallied almost exactly with the words in the book.

"No Room in the Ark," is the book, written by Alan Moorehead, Australian journalist who moved to London and wrote the great historical books "Gallipoli" and "The Russian Revolution." Moorehead is an authority on Africa, and he has this to say, on Pages 61-62, of the Congo as it was under the Belgians:

"You begin to notice many changes soon after you cross the border from British territory into the Congo . . . The Belgians have imposed a discipline, almost a subservience, on the Africans which goes far beyond anything the British have attempted. The men stop and salute or raise their hats whenever a white traveler goes by, a thing that rarely happens in Kenya or Uganda. In the Belgian game parks and the hotels the African staff is paraded like a squad of soldiers with the blast of a bugle or a whistle at first light in the morning.

"There is a great come and go of officials. District commissioners arrive in a flurry of uniforms and salutes, and at the parades and official banquets, Madame la Colonelle will appear in a smart little ensemble which would have been equal to a day's racing at Longchamps or a week-end house-party in the Ardennes."

All for Europe and Europeans — nothing for Africa and Africans — in the Congo when Belgium had it, is Moorehead's verdict.

Your editor asked Senator Fulbright about this at the coffee hour in Hope. Fulbright said our government's information on the Congo was this:

1. During their regime the Belgians did nothing to prepare the natives for self-government.
2. In the entire Congo army there was but one native with a rank as high as sergeant.
3. In the whole of the Congo there were only 17 natives with a college education.
4. When the Belgians panicked because of the racial trouble in the neighboring Union of South Africa they consulted the Congo native leader about turning the country into a republic. The native leader said the Congo was not ready for democracy. So the Belgians fired him and set up a new native leader — and turned the country loose.

The book and the senator agree — the Congo wasn't ready.

In selecting the newsworthy portions of the book for this editorial I have, of course, distorted the reader's picture of "No Room in the Ark" — it is a vivid and charming account of Africa's wild animals rather than her people. Its wildlife story and pictures are completely fascinating.

But the side-remarks on people and government — as in the former Belgian Congo — make "No Room in the Ark" an important contribution to world understanding of the tragedy that is stalking across the newspaper's front page today.

Prediction of Astrologer Good

LONDON (AP)—An astrologer who predicted a year ago that the life of Queen Elizabeth II might be endangered this fall has warned her to be especially careful Nov. 1.

The astrologer, Dr. W. J. Tucker.

In the Astrological Magazine of India he wrote in August 1959:

"Danger of mortality through an accident."

"The principal danger is aviation and the queen's advisers should dissuade Her Majesty, should she manifest a desire to travel by air anytime during the years 1960-61."

He warned particularly against mid-October to Nov. 1.

"Tuesday, Nov. 1, will be the most dangerous day of all," he wrote.

In an interview he said: "The queen's plane narrowly escaped being hit by some fighter planes yesterday. My prediction was borne out."

As to Nov. 1, that's the day the queen opens Parliament.

"She plans no plane travel that day," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman.

UN Curtly Tells Mobutu Recall Troops

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

LEOPOLDVILLE — The Congo (AP)—The United Nations early ordered Col. Joseph Mobutu today to withdraw his unruly soldiers from this terrorized Congolese capital.

U.N. mission chief Rajeshwar Dasal of India and his staff of senior officers cracked down on Mobutu's soldiers after a four-day rampage in which soldiers out of control and frequently drunk beat, robbed and terrorized civilian inhabitants.

A U.N. announcement said Mobutu agreed to withdraw his soldiers to their barracks by Thursday.

The United Nations was facing a formidable military challenge, though Mobutu's 3,000-man Leopoldville garrison may be retired to barracks later.

Exasperated U.N. officials say the challenge comes mainly from Belgian officers who have rejoined Congolese army units and are working behind the scenes to hamstring the current U.N. objectives.

Senior officers of the 19,000-strong U.N. force view the development as a threat to the Congo's public order and a danger to world peace.

The Belgian officers—like their civilian colleagues in the Congolese government offices—have two main objectives.

One is to prevent at all cost the return to power of Communist-leaning ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba and the other is to preserve as far as possible the privileged position of Belgian commercial interests in the Congo.

The presence of the U.N. force is a threat to both these objectives. The U.N. mission is bound by its charter to uphold parliamentary democracy. In the nation's political turmoil this inevitably favors Lumumba. And, among all the squabbling political leaders, only Lumumba is likely to upset the 80-year-old Belgian commercial ceremony.

The Congolese army — which U.N. mission chief Rajeshwar Dayal of India calls a "disorganized rabble" is bitterly divided within itself. Prominent U.N. officials say it is held together only with the help of the Belgian officers and money provided by Belgian firms operating in the Congo.

Despite secret Belgian aid and advice reported by the U.N., Congolese soldiers frequently seem out of control. They have been seen mercilessly beating civilians and stripping women in public in areas under their domination. Ten persons were killed by rampaging soldiers in a Leopoldville suburb Saturday and two more were reported killed Tuesday.

Belgian staff officers have reappeared in army camps where little more than three months ago soldiers mutinied against their Belgian officers and raped many of their wives.

And 36 Congolese cadets were sent to a Belgian military academy a few days ago against the will of the U.N. mission.

Industry Says U. S. Economy Is Robust

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the retail industry told President Eisenhower today—and reported he agreed—that the American economy is robust and only going through a "little pause."

The officers and executive committee of the American Retail Federation, representing some 800,000 retailers, said they base their confidence on continued high retail sales and an unprecedented level of personal savings.

Roland Jones Jr. of Washington, president of the federation, told reporters the President "shared our analysis of the present state of the economy."

He said Eisenhower told them the economy can't always be rising, that there has to be a pause once in awhile and there is such a pause now.

As to why the spokesmen for the retailers came in to recite figures Eisenhower already knows, Jones said "We're hearing so many people crying the blues in this country and accentuating the negative we thought it was the time to come in here and accentuate the positive."

Soviet Rocket Expert Dies in Crash

MOSCOW (AP) — Much-decorated Marshal Mitrofan I. Nedolzin, 57, commander of Soviet rocket forces, has been killed in an aviation accident.

The announcement of the death of the veteran artilleryman gave no details except that he died Monday in the course of his duties.

His successor as commander of the strategic rocket force and as a deputy defense minister is Marshal Kirill S. Moskalenko, 60, commander of the Moscow Military District.

Nedolzin's appointment as head of the rocket forces was announced last May 7 by Premier Khrushchev. That was the day Khrushchev said U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers had confessed being on an American spying mission when his plane was shot down a week previous by a rocket crew near Sverdlovsk.

Subsequently Khrushchev said he had given Nedolzin direct authority to retaliate for any future spy flights by firing nuclear-armed rockets at the base from which the intruder came.

Air Incident Under Probe by the West

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Defense Ministry pressed urgent inquiries today to find out if two of its Sabre Jets buzzed an airliner bringing Queen Elizabeth II home to Britain.

The two jets, reportedly marked with the crosses of West Germany's new Luftwaffe, missed the queen's Comet airliner by only 50 feet as it flew over the German-Dutch frontier Tuesday.

The fighters and the royal plane were traveling at a combined speed of well over 1,000 miles an hour. Air experts said a collision almost certainly would have been fatal for all aboard.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said the queen, Prince Philip and the other passengers in the Comet were safe.

Proceeds will go to the fund for construction of a non-denominational chapel at the Arkansas Children's Colony at Conway for retarded children of Arkansas. Kiwanis Clubs throughout the state will raise $150,000 for the project.

On Nov. 6, Churches in this area will take up a special collection for the fund. Key Club members, a youth organization, sponsored by Kiwanians, have raised about $100 for the fund. Any person desiring to make a contribution should send his check to Thomas Hays, treasurer, First National Bank of Hope.

White House Will Not Release Data on U.S. Prestige

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House refused today to make public a report which Democrats contend shows U. S. prestige abroad has declined.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty read newsman a statement saying that Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and director George Allen of the U.S. Information Agency "have determined that this paper will not be made available outside the executive branch."

Making clear the White House backed up that stand, the statement said Herter and Allen had acted under policies approved by the President.

The report is understood to be one from USA employees in the field, but its exact nature has never been officially disclosed.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, has been on the campaign circuit contending the paper supports his position that American prestige in the world has slipped. He has demanded that the document be made public.

His Republican rival, Vice President Richard M. Nixon has said he has no objection.

But Hagerty said the document "is classified secret."

"What you are asking me about," he told reporters, as he read from words scribbled on a note pad, "is entitled an internal, low-level staff paper similar to many others that are periodically prepared by staff elements within the United States Information Agency for staff use. It is classified secret. Under policies approved by the President pertaining to internal working papers of the executive branch of the government, the secretary of state and the director of the United States Information Agency have determined that this paper will not be made available outside the executive branch."

Hagerty had been told that Thomas Roderick, a USA contractor, told Congress Tuesday that Allen was going to check with the White House for a decision on whether to withhold the report.

Hagerty was asked whether Allen had checked with the White House and what the decision was. The press secretary's short statement was the answer.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House Government Operations subcommittee, quoted Roderick Tuesday as saying Allen was checking the White House on whether to release the report.

Hagerty had said that just as there would be no misunderstanding about President Eisenhower's position on prestige, he wanted to refer newsmen to many public statements on that subject, including Eisenhower's address Thursday night at San Francisco.

In what was widely interpreted as a slap at Kennedy, Eisenhower said in his speech that no one should be misled by those he said seem fond of "deprecating the standing, condition and performance of the entire nation."

Hagerty earlier brushed aside all inquiries as to the existence of a report or reports.

Kennedy and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had asked earlier for the reports without success.

By EDMOND LEBRETON
EN ROUTE WITH KENNEDY (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy charged today the Eisenhower administration is "afraid to tell the people the truth" and has repeatedly slapped the secrecy snap on records for political purposes.

The Democratic presidential candidate, heading for a day's campaigning in Michigan, broadcast the issue he kept pounding on Tuesday in a marathon assault on largely Republican Chicago suburbs.

His complaint then was that, in order to help Vice President Richard M. Nixon make good his campaign contention that U.S. prestige is at an all-time high, the administration had hidden away a government-financed survey.

This report, he said, showed that the people in 10 friendly countries believe the Soviet Union is ahead of this country militarily and will maintain or increase its lead.

Kennedy said today, in a speech prepared for delivery in Miami, Fla., that the Defense and State Departments, the Interior and Hugh Ruliff.

Amendment 50 Designed to Raise Salaries

AMENDMENT 50 — BY JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Among one segment of Arkansas' population — public officials — there is some opposition to proposed Constitutional Amendment 50, but officials are naturally reluctant to stump for it.

The amendment is a simple measure to make it possible to increase the salaries of state constitutional officers, county and city officials.

It is one of three proposed amendments up for a vote on Nov. 8.

Star to Give Its Views on Ballot

At the end of publication of the series of articles explaining the proposed amendments and acts which will appear on the general election ballot, November 8 — of which this is one article — "The Star" will make an editorial analysis of the various items and offer a suggested marked ballot for what's over it is worth to the newspaper's readers.

Only one officerholders' group the Arkansas Sheriffs' Association has openly endorsed the amendment.

Others have maintained official silence—some frankly admitting they fear voter reaction might be "if you don't like your pay, don't run."

"The amendment would double the maximum possible salaries of constitutional officers and double the ceiling on pay of county and city officials.

Any actual increases would have to be voted by legislative bodies — the General Assembly or city councils or equivalent municipal groups.

"The governor's salary would go from $10,000 to a possible maximum of $20,000, that of the lieutenant governor from $2,500 to $5,000, the attorney general from $8,000 to $12,000 and the secretary of state, state treasurer, state auditor and land commissioner from $5,000 to $10,000 each.

The limit for county and city officials would be increased from $5,000 to $10,000.

The long sleeves ended in tulle points over the hands, and the dress had a round neckline. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls belonging to her maternal grandmother and her veil fell from a tiara of pearls. A traditional cascade bouquet completed the lovely picture.

Miss Norma Jean Cannon, the bride's honor attendant, was dressed in a crystalline frock of ice pink with a matching bandeau of velvet and carried a blue nosegay. A reception in the recreation room of the church followed the ceremony. White gladiolus were used as decoration. Mrs. Harvey Lively of Houston, aunt of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake, and Mrs. John Hawkins served the punch.

Fulbright May Be Secy. of State

(WASHINGTON, AP) — A columnist for the Evening Star reports it is understood that Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., "has the inside track" for secretary of state if Sen. John F. Kennedy is elected president.

Betty Beale wrote in her column "Exclusively Yours" that this is "the hot scoop from high up in the Kennedy camp."

Her report continued: "The fact that the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee has made an unusual number of public statements of late along extremely pro-Kennedy lines lends credence to the rumor."

Fulbright has two years to go before his Senate term expires "but Gov. (Orval) Faubus plans to run for the Senate at that time, as predicted. It is not likely that the Senator is favoring the thought of running against him," she wrote.

Kennedy has been questioned a number of times by reporters as to his possible appointment to the top cabinet post, but has turned aside the inquiries.

Speculation has centered chief on Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential candidate, and R. G. Chester Bowles, D-Conn. Bowles, a former ambassador to India, was a campaign adviser to Kennedy on foreign affairs.

Screeen is Fined During Election Suit

(LONOKE, Ark., AP) — State Sen. Jerry Screeen was fined $10 today for a disturbance during a recess in trial of the election suit against him.

The fine was imposed by Justice of Peace J. S. Underhill for an alleged attack by Screeen on Jim Swain of Lonoke, publisher of the weekly Lonoke Democrat.

Trial of litigation between Screeen and J. T. Gunter over who is the legal Democratic nominee for state senator is being heard by Circuit Judge W. J. Waggoner.

Sheriff Warren Minton took Screeen before Underhill after the recess incident.

Minton said Screeen struck Swain, bloodying the latter's nose, after an argument.

Waggoner said today the Supreme Court should rule on the question of whether residents of Hazen Township where Screeen lives, have a right to intervene in the litigation.

Attorneys for the Hazen petitioners didn't say at once whether they would seek a high court ruling.

The contest suit shifted back here today from Des Arc for arguments on the request of the Hazen people that all Hazen voters be called to testify how they cast ballots in the Aug. 9 runoff primary.

The petition was to, 3rd graf LR20.

Whorter and son John of Pittsburg, Tex. were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hughes.

Fast-Talking Boy Almost Convinces

BY HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen:

I have tried to raise my 10-year-old daughter right. I see that she has clean clothes, dresses as well as the other kids and goes to church. She is a junior in high school. I tell her all I know about true love but she goes with a boy who tells her things that are not true. She listens. He tells her promiscuous sex is all right. This boy is a smooth talker and she is love blind. I don't want her to learn the hard way.

She will listen to good, sound reasoning. Please answer through your column. She reads it every day.

—Worried Mother

Dear Worried Mother: My first impulse is to rush in and protect any 10-year-old girl foolish enough to risk her future happiness by recklessly indulging in pre-marital sex relations. No matter how she thinks, feels or acts, she is too young and inexperienced to protect herself. It isn't worth the price she will pay in loss of self-respect, anxious hours of worry, tears and if she loves the boy — an aching heart.

If the boy really cared for your daughter, he would want to protect, not harm her.

Dear Helen:

I am 13 and in the eighth grade. I read your article about a girl who is my age and having difficulties making high grades.

In my school, I'm in most of the high groups, but my stepfather expects me to be in the very highest. I find it hard to make grades high enough to fit his standards. I am not an only child. Will you please tell me what to do to stop my stepfather from trying to push me so far? —Puzzled

Dear Puzzled: The nagging may not be directed at you, but at your father in you. However, let's give your stepfather the benefit of the doubt and assume he has only your interests at heart. Aim for the stars. Examine your own heart to be sure that you are not blocking your stepfather out of resentment. Make the grade. It's as simple as that.

Dear Helen:

Last spring I came to live with my cousin and her husband in a little town where most of the people are of foreign descent and a different religion. I met an Italian boy who used to go to school with my cousin. He came to her house every day while I was there during summer vacation. He was graduated in June and went to a trade school this fall. Now, he is only home weekends and doesn't come to my cousin's house any more.

How can I get him to notice me again? I am very quiet, don't date much and never go to parties. He doesn't either. We are both shy. He is interested in cars and racing. But I know nothing about either. I've tried reading about them but just can't understand the subject. I certainly would appreciate any help — Willing to Learn.

Dear Willing to Learn: Your boy friend's sudden indifference may be due to the fact that he found himself falling in love and hesitated to go further because your religious beliefs and his are not the same. On the chance that this is not the reason, send him the book on cars and racing which you've been reading, along with a note saying you want to learn more about this subject but are stymied because the book is too technical. Ask him to explain and simplify it for you.

Dear Helen:

My husband abuses by everything you say in favor of men. You are making my life miserable. Whatever I do or say, he tells me you have said on the subject. According to you, men are supposed to be treated like my 6-year-old baby. If man want to be head of the house, why can't they act like men?

I love my husband and enjoy keeping house and children clean and, to an extent, I like to wait on him. But I certainly don't like to have him expect me to spend the whole evening pampering him. I think wives should be the ones to have a little loving and spoiling. My husband, thanks to you, thinks a wife is a fixture in the house. A lot of wives agree with me. Why do you always side with the males? Unhappy Wife.

Dear Unhappy Wife:

I read your letter aloud to my husband, and added that I still maintain husband should be pampered and praised to the skies if marriage is to be happy. He grinned. "You're a smart girl."

Religious Issue Is Kept Alive

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy received a report in Rock Island, Ill., Monday that he is being "murdered" in Minnesota on the religious issue, the Minneapolis Tribune said today.

William Rivkin, Chicago lawyer and Kennedy's liaison agent for Minnesota and Iowa, flew to Illinois to report on a county-by-county canvass of Minnesota.

The Tribune said Kennedy was told a number of Protestant ministers in Minnesota openly were working against Kennedy on the basis of his Catholic faith that tens of thousands of anti-Catholic pamphlets were being distributed and that there was evidence that the campaign against a Catholic in the White House would reach a peak Sunday. "Reformation Sunday."

Rivkin's report also included Iowa, where he finds the religious issue cutting as deeply as in Minnesota, the story said.

Rivkin could suggest no step to counteract the religious feeling and said that if Kennedy made a

Keep right on pampering me. The smart woman never lets anybody know she's boss. She may build her husband up but she rules the roost. She's the power behind the throne; he king, she prime minister," he said.

How's that for a testimonial to my system?

Picks Porkers, Baylor, Rice as Winners

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Massachusetts has ruled pick-six illegal in horse race betting, any college football coach will tell you he must have the horses to win. So just horsing around, we're trying to avoid picking six losers. (Last week: 47 right, 9 wrong for 639. Season's figures: 211 right, 85 wrong for 765).

Iowa over Kansas: The Big Ten team that wasn't supposed to go anywhere meets the Big Eight club that was to have taken everything. Despite John Hadl, the Hawkeyes will win in a thriller.

Mississippi over Louisiana: States: There was a time when LSU had the Chinese Bandits, but this year the Rebels have Jake Gibbs. He will decide.

Syracuse over Pittsburgh: Twice beaten, twice tied. Pittsburgh could take this, but Ernie Davis and his mates will pull it out despite the vulnerable spots in the Syracuse line.

Navy over Notre Dame: Joe Bellino gets better and better as the season progresses.

Missouri over Nebraska: The Tigers are one of the most underrated teams in the Midlands.

Minnesota over Kansas State: A breeze for the Paul Bunyans of the football north.

Baylor over Texas Christian: Ronnie Bull will batter his way into the headlines for the South-West Conference leaders.

Michigan State over Ohio State: The Buckeyes are No. 8 on the national list, the Spartans No. 10, but the pick is Michigan State.

Elsewhere: Washington over Oregon; Tennessee over North Carolina; Arkansas over Texas A&M; Rice over Texas Tech; Auburn over Florida; Purdue over Illinois; Duke over Georgia Tech; Oregon State over California.

Moore Is Stunned at NBA Ruling

ROME (AP) — A spokesman for Archie Moore said today the American boxer was flabbergasted by the National Boxing Association's announcement that the NBA no longer regards him as the light-heavyweight champion of the world.

The spokesman said it was Moore's understanding he had until Nov. 20 to make arrangements to defend his title against Eric Schoepfer of Germany.

Coach Broyles Violated a SWC Rule

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas football coach Frank Broyles may have violated a Southwest Conference rule against public criticism of officials, but apparently nothing will be done about it.

Conference President Henry Hardt said Tuesday that a conference rule forbids a coach or other school official to criticize officiating in the press or publicly. Any criticism is supposed to be directed to the conference secretary in writing.

Broyles criticized the call of referee Thomas P. Bell on the last second field goal which gave Mississippi a 10-7 victory over Arkansas last Saturday. Broyles said the kick was not good.

Conference secretary Howard Grubbs said he had had no communication about the incident. And Hardt said that unless someone filed a protest no action would be taken. He said the conference wouldn't act on its own accord.

The gag rule has been used against a conference school only once since it was formulated in 1949.

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Baseball League today was expected to stake its claim in Los Angeles at a meeting designed to expand the circuit to 10 clubs in time for the 1962 season.

Los Angeles, together with Dallas-Fort Worth and Minneapolis-St. Paul, are regarded as the only cities among a dozen applicants being considered seriously for the ninth and tenth franchises.

The National League nine days ago beat its junior rival to the gun by grabbing Houston and New York in the first expansion move in the majors in 62 years.

The American League voted last month to expand to 10 teams, while the National League had a comparatively easy time coming to unanimous agreement, the American was expected to be engaged in a long, drawn-out debate regarding Los Angeles. It was highly possible no decision would be reached at this meeting which may be held over for a second day.

The AL clubowners first must solve internal problems concerning possible realignment before they can tackle the expansion movement. They are pretty much in agreement regarding Los Angeles. They feel an AL franchise in the rich Los Angeles territory would somewhat offset the advantage gained by the NL in grabbing off such plums as Houston and New York.

The rub, however, is in the manner of acquisition. One group, headed by Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox, wants the league to grant an open franchise to LA, along with Dallas-Fort Worth.

Another faction, headed by Dan Topping of the New York Yankees, would like to see the Kansas City franchise moved to Los Angeles, thus opening the way for the league to approve franchises to Minneapolis-St. Paul and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Hank Greenberg, vice-president of the White Sox, reportedly has been supporting a move on the part of owner Calvin Griffith to shift his Washington Senators to Minneapolis-St. Paul. Greenberg is anxious to take over the Washington franchise.

It takes a three-fourths vote to approve a franchise shift or the granting of a new franchise.

CHAPTER XXXIII
Colonel Harrington and Paolo (dressed in his uniform) were the last to arrive at the Palazzo Mont'Alto.

Paolo presented Harrington to the others. After they were settled over their first drink he said, "The Colonel can only get a jeep tomorrow for us — trucks are still scarce. We can send it for Ciccio, and a truck for his family the day after."

"Perhaps I could go in the jeep," Luchino said, "and bring him and his daughter Rosalba — her young man came out of the Vatican today." He turned to Harrington. "We exchanged two German officers we captured for three of our people."

"You mean you kidnapped them?" asked Harrington with surprise.

"No, Colonel," Paolo explained. "I told you at the hotel; we had to take them — they interrupted our Reception Committee when Caraccioli was landed." So, my reports weren't even read!"

"Oh, I do remember something about that," the Colonel said. "You're anxious to bring this man back in a hurry — is he needed?"

Paolo hoped he did not look as embarrassed as he felt. Luchino replied for him, "No, Colonel, he is not really needed — now. But he was needed — almost constantly for 10 months. His young son — only 15 — was killed Friday running courier for us. I think we all feel as Paolo does: we want to tell him. The boy was the apple of his eye."

"A brave fellow," said the Colonel as his glass was refilled by the butler. "Probably a Commie though, isn't he? I gather most workmen are here."

Paolo could feel the first warnings of his mounting anger, evidently Rosalini say it in his face, for he spoke before Paolo could. "Certainly not! But for us he was indispensable. There would have been no report on the wooden tanks were it not for him. Not only did he penetrate the German factory which made them here but it was he who attacked — together with his little son — the German officer and stole the brief case which gave us the whole picture." He paused.

"I hope you paid him well." Harrington seemed to be dismissing the subject.

"Except what he could have earned as mason — his family had to eat — he refused pay. Luchino spoke as casually as he could."

"Dangerous to pay little," the Colonel exclaimed like a phrase from a catechism. "Temptations to be double agents. Never pays to economize on agents' pay."

Luchino laughed unpleasantly, but it was Felice who replied. "It is hardly a question of that with Ciccio. He is as trustworthy as — any of us here."

"More so, if you ask me," said Mont'Alto. "He has proved his loyalty to anti-Fascism, to Cante Danesi's father, and to their organization for 20 years. Long before I was one of them. While England and America were still flirting with Mussolini."

"Was Mussolini really so bad?"

Rigney May Be Tiger Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Rigney, who was fired as manager of the San Francisco Giants last June, may be installed as pilot of the Detroit Tigers within a month.

The Associated Press learned Tuesday that Rigney, who led the Giants to two straight third place finishes before he was let go, applied for the vacant Detroit job during the World Series.

The Tigers have been without a manager since early this month when Joe Garagiola resigned.

Hope Star SPORTS

Woodson Has Always Had a Winner

By JIM IRWIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP) — When Warren Woodson came to New Mexico State in 1958 he tread where angels and most football coaches feared to tread. He also predicted a winner within three years.

That was saying a lot for a school which hadn't had a winning football season since 1938 and had won only 20 games in the previous 13 seasons.

It's three years later and Woodson's Aggies are unbeaten in six games this season and are working on a 10-game winning streak.

"We have one of the outstanding football teams in the nation," Woodson says.

One season is the recruiting Woodson did during his first year. He recruited smart football players — a change for a school which had tried to build football teams from collegiate castoffs.

His stars include halfbacks Bob Galters and Pervis Atkins and quarterback Charley Johnson.

Galters, the tailback in Woodson's wing T formation leads the nation in scoring and rushing with 856 yards and 92 points.

Atkins, drafted last year by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, was 1959's national leader in scoring and rushing while playing wingback. This year he's fourth in scoring.

Johnson is the nation's No. 3 passer with 67 completions for 868 yards and ranks fifth in total offense with 920 yards.

Winning isn't new to Woodson. At Texas A&M (Tex.) junior college he twice won the Texas JC championship.

His teams at Arkansas State Teachers College won four Arkansas Inter-Collegiate Conference championships during his six-year stay and later at Hardin-Simmons he won the Border Conference title three times. Only at Arizona did Woodson fail to win a championship.

Official league statistics released today show that Plum, former Penn State signal caller, has completed 41 passes, good for 770 yards (including six touchdowns) and shows an average gain of 14 yards per pass.

Brown, who was in second place in the rushing race for two weeks, climbed back to the top with 432 yards in 72 attempts for an average of 6 yards a try.

Browns' Plum Leading Passer

NEW YORK (AP) — Milt Plum of the Cleveland Browns, who hasn't had one of his tosses intercepted all season, leads the National Football League passers, and his teammate, Jimmy Brown heads the ground gaining race.

Official league statistics released today show that Plum, former Penn State signal caller, has completed 41 passes, good for 770 yards (including six touchdowns) and shows an average gain of 14 yards per pass.

Brown, who was in second place in the rushing race for two weeks, climbed back to the top with 432 yards in 72 attempts for an average of 6 yards a try.

Ike Completes a 9-Day Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower returned today from a nine-day, coast-to-coast trip which the White House described as non-political.

The President's big jet plane touched down at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 2:05 p.m. EDT after a 2½-hour flight from Houston, Tex.

Eisenhower set out immediately for the White House in a helicopter.

Broglia Is Nat'l Soph of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Broglia, unimpressive as a rookie with the St. Louis Cardinals a year ago today, was named the National League Sophomore of the Year.

The big right-hander, a 21-game winner, was an overwhelming choice in the annual Associated Press poll of baseball writers. He received 165 of the 189 votes cast.

Shortstop Maury Wills of Los Angeles was second with 20 votes. Outfielder-first baseman George Allman of Chicago, and pitcher Jim O'Toole and Jay Hook of Cincinnati and Larry Sherry of Los Angeles each collected one vote.

Broglia really arrived after last year's 17-12 won-lost record and a 4.72 earned run average as a rookie. The 25-year-old hurler lost only nine games and posted a 2.75 era this season while working as a starter and in relief.

Broglia's 700 won-lost percentage was the second highest in the league, and he ranked fourth in strikeouts with 187. Appearing in 52 games, Broglia started 24 times. Three of his nine complete games were shutouts.

The first bridge across the Arkansas river was completed at Little Rock in 1738.

The Farm Family of the Year!

All Things Considered in Picking the Winner

On December 9, an Arkansas family will win the title of "Farm Family of the Year". They will be selected from farm families nominated from over the entire state. In winning, they will have competed against the best that Arkansas farm families have to offer in farm and home improvement, management and operation.

This honor becomes more impressive when you consider the broad areas which are reckoned with in sizing up each family's accomplishments. The general rules for judgment are outlined by the "Farm Family of the Year" score card. Formerly known as the "Balanced Farming Program", the competition is sponsored by the Arkansas Press Association, the Memphis Commercial Appeal, and the Arkansas Power & Light Company with the cooperation of the agricultural agencies.

The comprehensive scoring system used falls into three parts:

Farm . . . 40 Points

Resource Use
Land: Is land being put to its most profitable use considering available markets, the ability and skill of available labor, and other such factors? Are soil conservation and drainage needs being met?

Labor: Is the combination of enterprises such as to make optimum use of the available labor supply?

Capital: Are adequate amounts of investment capital in the form of buildings, fences, ponds, machinery, and livestock being used to make efficient use of available land and labor? Are sufficient amounts of production capital being used so as to achieve satisfactory rates of crop and livestock production?

Rates of Production
Are crop yields satisfactory for the soil types? Are yields above average for the community? Are livestock rates of production satisfactory for the kind of livestock on hand and the management practices followed?

Management Practices
For crops, are higher yielding varieties used, diseases and insects adequately controlled, and optimum rates of fertilizers applied?

For livestock, are the livestock operations adapted to the farm? Are numbers, production rates, or efficiency of production suitable for the type of operation? Are good management practices in feeding, breeding, and insect and disease control being followed?

For marketing, are farm products sold in the form and at a time and place that adds to the net farm income?

Buildings and Improvements
Do the buildings and improvements fit the needs of the farm and the family? Are they well constructed and well maintained?

Home . . . 30 Points
Every family has three things to spend. These are: time, energy, and money. How the family spends these depends upon many factors. Some are personal factors such as attitudes, knowledge, and abilities. Other factors are available land, capital, and credit. In addition, the existing community services and facilities will influence the family. The age of the family is also a factor.

How did the family combine time, energy, and money to provide for better living?

Time
Does the family organize and use their time well? Does the homemaker organize and distribute her time between home, family, and community activities? What labor savers are used to improve home working conditions? Does the planning of the home and the arrangement of the furnishings and equipment make for convenience and comfort?

Money
Is the money spent for family living well managed? Is the family food supply well planned and does it provide an adequate diet for the entire family at reasonable cost? Is the health of the family given proper attention including medical and dental "check ups"? Does the family have a health insurance program? Is the family clothing budget well managed? Is the family making provisions for the education of the children?

Energy
Has the family expended energy on worthwhile projects that are adaptable for family use? Does the house provide adequate storage needed by the family? Is there any indication the farmstead has been landscaped (planted or started) by a suitable plan? Does the home and/or farmstead show any originality?

Rural Leadership — Community Values — Family Life . . . 30 Points

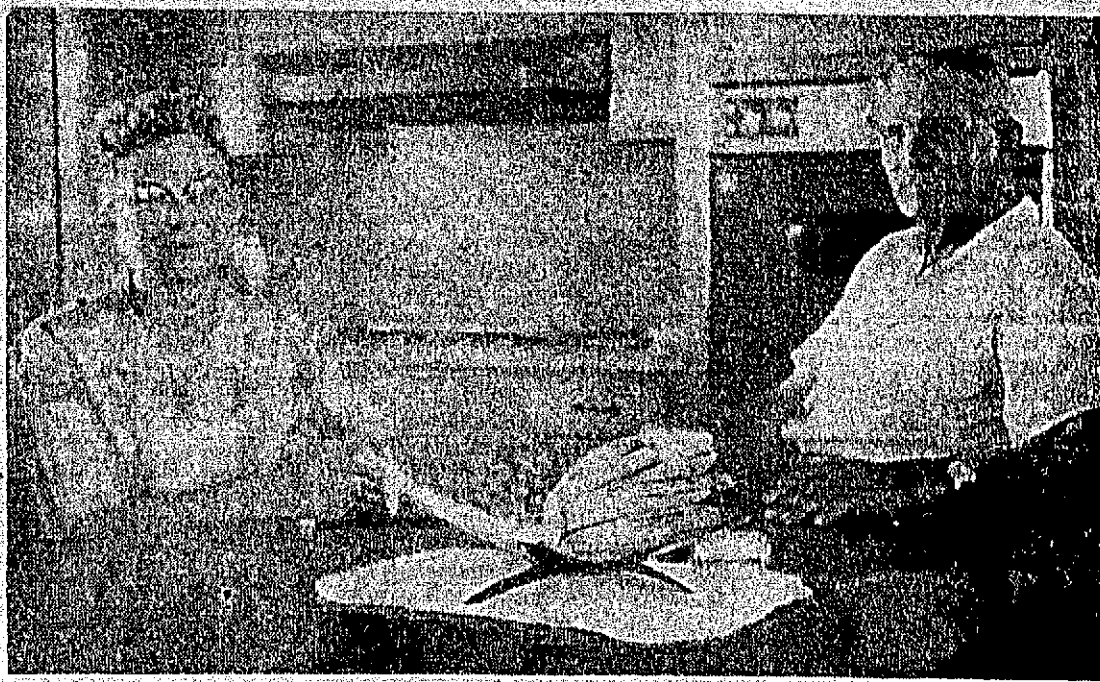

Rural Leadership
Is the family furnishing leadership in the community, farm, youth and women's organizations, and other groups? Has the family taken any part in community improvement? Have the demonstrations of improved practices on this farm and home influenced other people?

Community Values
Does the family take part in community, social, and fraternal activities? Do they have interest and pride in their local community and neighborhood?

Family Life
Is there evidence of family togetherness? Do they take part in any activities as a family group? Are any decisions made as a family? Do they have goals toward which the entire family is working?

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Williams of Fulton Selected As Hempstead County' Farm Family For 1960

MR. AND MRS. LAMAR WILLIAMS

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Williams, of Fulton, have been named the 1960 Hempstead County Farm Family and will be competing this fall in the Southwest District Farm Family Contest. They will be the guests of the Hope Chamber of Commerce in December, at a State banquet in Little Rock at which time the Arkansas Farm Family of the Year will be named. The Hope Star will present the Williams with a plaque in recognition for having been chosen Hempstead County Farm Family.

Mr. Williams first venture in the business of farming came on a part time basis when he became interested in cattle raising as a sideline to his newspaper business. In 1951 he purchased his present 2,000 acre farm and has since devoted full time to farming. At the present time he has 90 acres planted to alfalfa, 90 acres of cotton, 300 acres of wood land and the balance in pasture on which he has approximately 800 head of hereford and angus cattle. Pecan trees on the place also provide a nice cash crop each year and Mr. Williams has entered into a program of grafting several new trees each year in order to increase this yearly crop. He believes in good farming practices and follows closely the recommendations for soil testing and fertilizing of the land.

A fire destroyed the Williams home, including all the contents, last winter and a new one has been built back at the same site. The family moved into this new home on August 9th, 1960, which is completely electric including air conditioning. Mrs. Williams planned the color schemes and made all of the drapes for the new home and has a plan prepared for landscaping the grounds this

This Hempstead County Family is most active in County and Community affairs. Mr. Williams serves as president of the Feeder Calf Sale, a director in the Nashville Production Association, a director in the Hempstead County

Cattlemen's Association and a member of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau. He is superintendent of the Fulton Union Sunday School and is teacher of the Men's Bible Class. Mrs. Williams is a member of the Fulton Garden Club and the Fulton Civic Committee.

Mrs. Glen Ford, the Williams daughter and only child, is a graduate of Texas State College for Women, majoring in Business Management. She and her husband live at Fulton and he is assisting his father-in-law in the operation of the farm. A broiler growing partnership has been formed between Mr. Williams and Mr. Ford and they expect to get started very soon on housing and equipment for 40,000 broilers.

The Farm Family of the Year Program is sponsored annually by the Arkansas Press Association, The Arkansas Power & Light Company and the Memphis Commercial Appeal with the cooperation of the Agricultural Agencies.

Balanced Farm Program Is Started in 1946

"The Arkansas Balanced Farming Program" began in 1946, worked itself right out of one job into another. Now it will be known as "The Farm Family of the Year Program".

This name change comes as a result of Arkansas' tremendous agricultural expansion in recent years. Agribusiness is booming. In 1960, farmers use more fertilizers, chemicals, automobiles, trucks, tractors, machinery, and money than ever before. The original purpose implied by the "Balanced Farming" title was that of boosting farm production with that job well in hand, emphasis in "The Farm Family of the Year Program" will be on people — personal recognition of Arkansas' outstanding farmers who have contributed most to this much improved agricultural picture.

Arkansas' farmers, themselves, are the one statistic that has not increased in recent years. Fewer workers and fewer farms are producing record yields through improved management and technological advances.

A significant result of this increased production and decreased farm population has been the upgrading of our whole agricultural economy. Today Arkansas people in the field of agriculture are earning higher incomes, putting away more savings and building their investments as never before.

For example, farmers received $551 million more for their products in 1959 than they received in 1939. Per capita income rose 47 per cent in these two decades compared to a national average of 28 per cent. Total personal income advanced from $471 million to $2,169 million.

Because Arkansas' agriculture has changed so rapidly and has moved in so many directions in recent years, "The Farm Family of the Year" selection in 1960 was based on revised score cards. Here's how the program works:

County Farm Family of the Year

The state committee appoints a county Farm Family of the Year committee for each county. This committee is composed of farmers, farm women, business leaders, newspaper editors, and agricultural workers. From three to ten families are named by this committee. Another committee or a sub-committee visits the families and selects one to represent the county.

New Basis for Scoring

In earlier years, selections were made on the basis of crops and livestock produced and the home improvements program for the current year. A great deal of emphasis was placed on the live-at-home program and farm diversification. During recent years the program has placed more emphasis upon the efficiency of production, home improvement, home management, and leadership in agricultural and community affairs. The score card that judges use in 1960 gives more credits on farm and home management and takes into consideration what the farm family has contributed to agriculture and community life.

No "Landowner" and "Tenant" Divisions

In former years, the judges chose two winning families. One winner, owned the land they farmed; the other rented their land. This year changes in the basis of judging will take into consideration the improvement of tenant farms and do away with the need for two divisions.

Families Selected Earlier

The state committee felt that since a little more emphasis was going to be placed on what the family had done over a period of years, rather than placing it on the values of the current year, the selection time would not necessarily have to wait until the current year crops were harvested. A simplified report form was sent in by the county committee by September 5 this year.

During the week of October 24, county "Farm Family of the Year" selections are being announced over Arkansas.

November 7-12, district judging in five Arkansas districts will determine district winners. The state winners will be announced at the annual banquet December 9.

Many counts and city officials do not make the present limit, but many larger counties and cities are willing and able to pay their officials more.

It seems likely that the General Assembly would promptly raise the constitutional officers to the maximum.

Salaries of the county officials would still be set by the various county pay bills passed by each Legislature.

City governments would continue to establish salaries for their officials.

Proponents of the amendment say these salaries wouldn't be set any higher than the people want.
